

From: Easling
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 12/6/01 10:30pm
Subject: Microsoft AntiTrust Decision

I believe what you are doing to Microsoft is a miscarage of justice.

You weren't so lenient on AT&T nor on Standard Oil. WHY?

Break them up into seperate companies. One as an OS company. One as a Software Company (office, etc.). One as a hardware company (MS-Mouse, Keyboard, XBox, etc).

Your decision to "punish" them by making them pay with software is a JOKE. If anything, make them pay money. Then install Linux on school systems. This will help keep them from being even more monopolistic. Why punish them by putting them in the very market they want to get to in the first place? Isn't it kind of like sending your kid to his/her room where they've got a radio, TV, PC, etc? What kind of punishment is that?

ME